Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed October 23rd 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments (see Remarks page 6) stating that, "Bedard clearly fails to teach or suggest adding a first category from the first set of category to the second set of categories in response to tuning a device to a broadcast program fitting into the first category a predetermined number of times" have been noted. However Bedard discloses monitoring and recording the number of times the user is tuned to a particular program or channel is tuned to in order to determine what user's favorite channels are. It should be noted that only when a user has tuned to a program channel, wherein categories additionally characterize the programs viewed by the user, categories of programs viewed a predetermined number of times is added to the second set. See column 5 lines 15-20. Bedard further discloses that system monitors the most often viewed categories. See column 8 lines 55-58. That is, Bedard discloses adding the channel/category to the list of favorites when the system determines that a user views the channel/category "often".

For these reasons the rejection is maintained.
